Introduction

Advanced Manufacturing involves cutting-edge technologies to develop and produce new products, as well as the research and innovation of new, more efficient and effective manufacturing systems. These technologies include computer numerical control (CNC) machining, computer-aided design and drafting (CADD), robotics, and artificial intelligence (AI).

The Far North sector is home to a range of manufacturing industries:

- Food manufacturing, including the headquarters of California Olive Ranch, a large producer of extra virgin olive oil in Chico.
- Beverage and tobacco manufacturing, including Mendocino County's acclaimed organic vineyards and wineries (such as Bonterra Organic Estates) and the Sierra Nevada Brewing Co. (the nation's third-largest craft brewing company in Chico).
- Forest products, with timber and lumber production companies, such as Sierra Pacific Industries, Mendocino Redwood Company, and Collins Companies, serving as major employers.

This field is a good fit for students who enjoy troubleshooting and problem-solving. As the sector evolves, it will continue to need workers who are comfortable learning new tools and adapting to changing production technologies.

This publication was supported through Strong Workforce Program (SWP) funding from the North Far North Regional Consortium and the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office Economic and Workforce Development Grant. SWP is an initiative designed to expand career education (CE) programs offered by the California Community Colleges to supply a skilled workforce to California's employers. The North Far North Regional Consortium (NFnrc) is charged with coordinating the planning and implementation of CE programs among community colleges within the 22-county North Far North region, which includes the North (Greater Sacramento) and Far North subregions. The NFnrc has 12 sectors, which are listed in the chart on page 1. This sector profile summarizes key data about current and projected workforce demand, hourly wages, job postings, and community college programs to support the goals of SWP.
