SUMMARY

This report analyzes whether local labor market demand is being met by community college programs aligned with the identified middle-skill occupations¹ or whether a shortage of workers exists. Labor market demand is measured by annual job openings while education supply is measured by the number of awards (degrees and certificates) conferred on average each year.

Based on the available data, there appears to be a supply gap for the two identified middle-skill occupations in the region. While entry-level wages are lower than the self-sufficiency standard wage in both Los Angeles and Orange counties, more than one-third of current workers in the field have completed an associate degree or less education as their highest level of educational attainment.

Recommendation: Due to two of three program endorsement criteria being met, the Los Angeles Center of Excellence for Labor Market Research (LA COE) endorses this proposed program.

Key Findings

Supply Gap

- 3,220 annual job openings are projected in the region through 2028. This number is greater than the three-year average of 1,248 awards conferred by educational institutions in the region.

¹ Middle-skill occupations typically require some postsecondary education, but less than a bachelor’s degree. The COE classifies middle-skill jobs as the following:

- All occupations that require an educational requirement of some college, associate degree or apprenticeship;
- All occupations that require a bachelor’s degree, but also have more than one-third of their existing labor force with an educational attainment of some college or associate degree; or
- All occupations that require a high school diploma or equivalent or no formal education, but also require short- to long-term on-the-job training where multiple community colleges have existing programs.

Living Wage

- Both occupations in this report have entry-level wages below Los Angeles County's self-sufficiency standard hourly wage ($24.03/hour).²

Educational Attainment

- A high school diploma or equivalent is the typical entry-level education for the middle-skill human services occupations, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS).
- 38%-48% of workers in the field have completed an associate degree or less education, according to national educational attainment data.

Community college supply

- 18 community colleges issued awards related to community health and/or human services in the greater LA/OC region.
- 665 awards (degrees and certificates) were conferred on average each year between 2021 and 2023.

Other postsecondary supply

- 15 educational institutions in the LA/OC region have conferred awards in programs related to community health and/or human services over the past three years.
- 583 awards were conferred on average each year by other postsecondary institutions throughout the greater LA/OC region between 2020 and 2022.

TARGET OCCUPATIONS

LA COE prepared this report to provide regional labor market and postsecondary supply data related to two middle-skill occupations. For full occupation descriptions, please see Appendix.

- Social and Human Service Assistants (21-1093)³
- Community Health Workers (21-1094)⁴

OCCUPATIONAL DEMAND

Exhibit 1 shows the five-year occupational demand projections for these middle-skill human services occupations. In the greater Los Angeles/Orange County region, the number of jobs related to these occupations is projected to increase by 14% through 2028. There will be more than 3,200 job openings per year through 2028 due to job growth and replacements. The majority of jobs in 2023 for these middle-skill human services occupations (80%) were located in Los Angeles County.

Detailed Occupation Data

Exhibit 2 displays the current employment and projected occupational demand for each of the target occupations in Los Angeles County. Positive scores for automation resilience⁶ reflect a lower-than-average threat of the occupation(s) being replaced by automation, while negative scores reflect a greater-than-average risk of automation. The average percentage of workers aged 55+ across all occupations in the Los Angeles/Orange County region is 26%; occupations with a larger share of workers aged 55 and older typically have greater replacement needs to offset the amount of impending retirements. On average, 81% of workers across all occupations in California are employed full-time. Occupations with a lower-than-average percentage of full-time workers may have less employment security but may see increased activity in the gig economy.

WAGES

The labor market endorsement in this report considers the entry-level hourly wages for these middle-skill human services occupations in Los Angeles County as they relate to the county's self-sufficiency standard wage. Orange County wages are included below in order to provide a complete analysis of the greater Los Angeles/Orange County region.

⁵ Five-year change represents new job additions to the workforce. Annual openings include new jobs and replacement jobs that result from retirements and separations.

⁶ Automation risk is calculated based on the percentage of time spent on high-risk compared to low-risk work, the number of high-risk jobs in compatible occupations, and the overall industry automation risk.

⁷ Five-year change represents new job additions to the workforce. Annual openings include new jobs and replacement jobs that result from retirements and separations.

Los Angeles County

Both occupations have entry-level wages below the self-sufficiency standard wage for one adult ($24.03 in Los Angeles County). Typical entry-level hourly wages are in a range between $19.10 and $21.44. (Exhibit 3). Experienced workers can expect to earn wages between $28.58 and $29.87, which are higher than the self-sufficiency standard.

Other Postsecondary Supply

For a comprehensive regional supply analysis, it is important to consider the supply from other institutions in the region that provide training programs for middle-skill human services occupations. Exhibit 11 shows the number of awards conferred by these institutions in relevant programs. Due to different data collection periods, the most recent data is from 2020 to 2022. Between 2020 and 2022, other postsecondary college institutions in the region conferred an average of 583 bachelor's and sub-baccalaureate awards. Sub-baccalaureate awards include associate degrees, postsecondary awards, and other academic awards that typically take fewer than four years to complete. Of the awards in Exhibit 11, the majority (87%) are bachelor's degrees, followed by sub-baccalaureate awards (13%).

APPENDIX: OCCUPATION DESCRIPTIONS

LA COE prepared this report to provide regional labor market supply and demand data related to these target occupations:

- Social and Human Service Assistants (21-1093): Assist other social and human service providers in providing client services in a wide variety of fields, such as psychology, rehabilitation, or social work, including support for families. May assist clients in identifying and obtaining available benefits and social and community services. May assist social workers with developing, organizing, and conducting programs to prevent and resolve problems relevant to substance abuse, human relationships, rehabilitation, or dependent care.⁸

- Community Health Workers (21-1094): Promote health within a community by assisting individuals to adopt healthy behaviors. Serve as an advocate for the health needs of individuals by assisting community residents in effectively communicating with healthcare providers or social service agencies. Act as liaison or advocate and implement programs that promote, maintain, and improve individual and overall community health. May deliver health-related preventive services such as blood pressure, glaucoma, and hearing screenings. May collect data to help identify community health needs.⁹
